

As an amateur radio operator I feel that the need for morse code testing is a thing of the past, and should not be a deciding factor in amateur operating privileges. A restructuring of the licensing system as well as restructuring of the testing system are both excellent ideas and should be instituted as quickly as possible.